[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO JULY 9.

Washington News

WASHINGTON, July 9. — In the Senate the House amendments to the Georgia bill were non concurred in, and a Conference Committee was appointed.

At the Senate evening session a joint resolution making an appropriation for payment to the British Government to settle the claims of the Hudson Bay and Puget Sound Agricultural Company, passed.

The President nominated Porter C. Bliss, Secretary of Legation to Mexico; Colonel W. H. Browne, Receiver of Public Moneys at Vancouver, Washington Territory; Enoch G. Adams, Register of Land Office at the same place; Charles H. Chamberlain, Receiver of Public Moneys at San Francisco; John Warren, Surveyor General of Arizona; Commodore Selfridge, to be Rear Admiral, both on the retired list; Commodore Melancthon Pennett and C. C. Boggs, Admirals on the active list.

The joint Committee of Conference on the funding bill had a discussion to-day, the principal disagreement being the rate of interest, the House Committee insisting upon four per cent., and the others arguing that there could be no negotiations at that rate. The Senate Committee wanted to retain foreign agencies, and exhibited a letter from the Secretary of Treasury in favor of them. The committee is to meet again at the call of the chairman. Brooks declined to be a member of the committee, and as New York ought to be represented, Marshall was appointed in his place.

Ackerman took the oath of office this morning, as Attorney General, before the Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for the District of Columbia.

The Secretary of the Treasury will receive sealed proposals until the 20th of July for the right to take furs upon the islands of St. Paul and St. George, Alaska, for 20 years, from July 1870.

Under the currency bill, California will get $1,717,358, Oregon $161,273, Washington Territory $47,150 additional circulation. The President has approved the currency bill.

In the House the Committee of Conference report on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill was agreed to.

The Senate amendments to the tariff and tax bill were taken up. The Senate amendment fixing income tax at the rate of 2½ per cent. was agreed to, and the amendment to continue it two years rejected.

WASHINGTON, July 8. — The Senate to-night ratified the protocol in relation to the African slave trade and naturalization treaty with Great Britain.

The McGarrahan Case

WASHINGTON, July 9. — The Committee on the McGarrahan case stands 7 to 3. Peters has been directed to prepare a report adversely to McGarrahan's memorial for relief. The House Judiciary Committee decided by a vote of 6 to 4 against McGarrahan's claim. A minority report will be made. The House Judiciary Committee, in considering McGarrahan's case, decided by a tie vote that it is not necessary to investigate the title of the New Idria Company.

Troubles in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, July 9. — Gov. Holden declares Caswell county in a state of insurrection. A proclamation published this morning sets forth, as a reason for so doing, that outrages have been reported that the public knows nothing of, since the death of Stevens, two months since.

The New York Appointments.

NEW YORK, July 9. — Affairs about the Custom House were quiet yesterday. Parties interested in the proposed changes are disposed to await the result at Washington. A decision is expected to be arrived at before Tuesday next. General opinion is that Murphy will be confirmed. There is the best of authority for stating that Grinnell resigned as Collector on June 7th, and besought the President to give him the Naval office. The hearing of Grinnell and Murphy's claim takes place before the Committee of Conference at Washington to-day.

The Red River Troubles Settled.

ST. PAUL, July 8. — Information is received of a settlement of the Red River difference. The Legislative Assembly of Red River met on the 25th of June, and unanimously accepted the terms of the Manitoba bill as satisfactory. Riell and his supporters are perfectly satisfied with the arrangement, and will welcome the Canadian expedition on their way there. Regarding Indian troubles, there is no positive danger.

BY THE CABLES

The War Cloud in Europe — The Spanish Throne.

PARIS, July 8. — Ambassadors of Austria, England and Italy, had a conference to-day with the Government. They seem favorable to the French military measures already mentioned. Two corps d'arme are to be made ready for immediate movements, Bazaine in command of one and Lebrun the other. McMahon will have an army and Leboeuf an important command, while Palikao will take command of troops to operate against Spain. Active preparations are making at the seaports. At midnight the Minister of War declared to the Emperor that the army was ready to march at the first signal. No answer has been received from Prussia. It is reported that there will be none before Monday.

There is no further confirmation of the Pekin massacre, and no official advices of the affair in London, Paris or St. Petersburg.

The Spanish question still causes much uneasiness. A report, seemingly well founded, is in circulation here that the Prussian Minister of War has ordered all absent officers of the Prussian army to rejoin their corps without delay.

PARIS, July 9. — Considerable excitement was caused to-day by rumors that Prussia is arming at all the Baltic ports. The French Minister of War has issued orders to all Generals commanding, requiring them to report to the War office immediately, with condition of troops, arsenals, ammunition, &c., in their respective departments.

LONDON, July 9. — Both here and in Liverpool the breadstuffs and cotton markets are unsettled and prices irregular, on account of the possibility of a continental war. The same influences are operating on the Manchester market for cotton goods and yarns. General excitement seems unabated, while the better opinion seems to be that war will be at least avoided.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9. — Smally, the successful bidder for Yerba Buena Square, did not make his required security last evening, and the chances are it will be awarded to the next lowest.

The Fourth of July Committee is still in session, auditing and examining bills. Many are found to be exorbitant and will bear a little trimming. The Committee expect to be able to complete their labors to-day.

The second trial of F. W. Voll, indicted for the murder of Maurice Welch, a year since, is set for Monday next in the Fifteenth District Court.

A man named Dorris committed suicide by taking strychnine at the Palm House, Broadway, late last night.

The meeting of the Anti Coolieites last night adopted the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, Employment of Chinese labor in shoe and boot-making business and other trades in this city has reduced the wages of such trades fifty per cent, thereby driving out of employment many of our number, and whereas the employment of Chinese in our trades is rapidly increasing in spite of our protests, no attempt being made to put a stop to such immigration to our country; the very means of our people being used to encourage the importation of Chinese by paying large subsidies to steamers that bring them here, and whereas, the Chinese question has become a national one, our fellow workingmen in the Eastern States being already threatened by the same competition that is depriving us of bread, therefore be it

Resolved, By the mechanics and laboring men of San Francisco here assembled, that we declare our determination to prevent this evil and monstrous competition that is now driving us and our families to starvation, by any and all means in our power; that we call upon our fellow workmen throughout the United States to stand with us in this common danger and make it a question in which there shall be no equivocation or subterfuges

Resolved, That we demand of the Government of the United States a stoppage of payments now being made to Chinese steamers, and that we insist upon the abrogation of the treaty with China, and the passage of a law prohibiting Mongolians from coming to the country, except for commercial purposes.

Resolved, That for the better management of our opposition to Chinese competition, we are in favor of a convention of mechanics and other laboring men of this city.

Resolved, That all labor associations in this city are requested to take immediate steps to favor such a convention.

Resolved, That the Mechanics' State Council be requested to call such a convention to meet at an early day, they to fix the rate of representation for associations.

Resolved, That the report of the Committee of the Board of Supervisors of this city, of which P. H. Canovan was chairman, in refusing to grant $250 per month for the support of a mechanics' labor exchange, is a reckless disregard of the interests of the workingmen of this State, and meets with our emphatic condemnation, and that we will not, in future, support either Canovan, Story or Winkle for any office whatever.

The meeting was addressed by A. Sumner, Gen. Winn, Henry George, Thos. Mooney, Mr. Campbell, C. C. Hickey and others, nearly all of whom counselled the most violent measures. The Anti-Chinese party were advised to form civil and military organizations to oppose Chinese, and Mooney said he had been preaching this theory, night after night, of taking steps to prevent the immigration of Chinese. He was pleased with the resolutions, particularly urging on them to form anti-coolie companies and establish headquarters for men to be instructed in the drill, and when we had 100,000 men organized, we would see what would become of the Chinese. Before the meeting broke up it passed the following:

Resolved, That when we adjourn, we will do so to meet again next Friday night at the Pavilion, to hear the proposition of the Mechanic's State Council to carry out our views relating to the organization of Labor Conventions, so as to concentrate our views in opposing the further immigration of Chinese to this country.

Maguire's troupe of British blondes leave on Monday for a tour through the interior, commencing at Stockton.

An explosion occurred at half-past six o'clock to-day, at the California Powder Company's cap factory, on Byfield tract, near Laguna, Honda. The explosion took place in a little shanty, six feet by six, in which the fulminate for making caps for exploding Giant and Hercules powder is prepared. The mixture of a few pounds of fulminate was being stirred by John Harry, assistant chemist, when it exploded, tearing him to atoms, and somewhat injuring two Chinamen, neither fatally. The loss of property is very slight. The explosion was first reported to be at the Giant Powder mills, which was in in the immediate vicinity.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

House Burned and Remains of Occupant Found in the Ashes.

OAKLAND, July 9. — The mail carrier from Gardiner brings the following: That on Wednesday, July 6th, the house of Capt. Hathaway, on Umpqua river, about ten miles from Scottsburg, was destroyed by fire. Upon investigation, the charred remains of Hathaway were found in the cellar. Cause of the fire unknown.

CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA.

The new English Company were to commence work on the Eberhardt mine, White Pine, on the 1st of July, with a force of 300 men. Treasure City was jubilant over the prospect.

A Nevada miner carefully prospected a portion of North B street, Virginia City, and finding that it would yield $25 per ton, has gone to work at it with the permission of the Board of Aldermen. He has 109 tons of old ore in sight.

The San Francisco Bulletin has a sensible article on the depression of real estate in that city, in which it expresses hopes that the result may be to turn the attention of capitalists from city lots to other avenues of wealth, such as farming and agricultural projects.

A dispatch from Aurora (Nev.), July 1st says: "Last Tuesday the Silver Peak stage was stopped and robbed of $5,000 in bullion belonging to Wells, Fargo & Co., twelve miles from Silver Peak, by three disguised highwaymen. The robbers escaped arrest, and are now supposed to be on the way to Wadsworth. Wells, Fargo & Co. offer $1,500 reward for their apprehension and conviction."

Friedlander's (San Francisco) Grain Circular, for the year ending June 30, has just been issued. In reference to the wheat crop now being harvested, the Circular remarks: "Our estimate of the present crop is that we will fall short of that of 1868–'69 about 2,000,000 centals, so that in round numbers we may expect to have not far from 200,000 tons to export, besides what we require for food and for seed for the next season."

The Marysville (Cal.) Appeal relates this: "Many of our readers will remember John C. Fall, one of the pioneers of Marysville, who is said to have been the first one to pitch a tent or build a house on the site now covered by our beautiful city, and who was at one time one of our prominent merchants. We are informed that he is now the sole owner of the Arizona mine in Humboldt, Nevada, and that he is making a very satisfactory showing, financially. Last year he took out about $500,000, and expects to take out at least $1,000,000 the present year. He has from fifty to sixty men employed. How few of the old pioneers can make such a showing."

California at this season of the year is somewhat noted for the aridity of its atmosphere. The Alta of July 3d chronicles these incidents: "On Friday, the oat field of A. Rosenheimer, at Penn's Grove, Sonoma county, caught fire from matches left on a rock and ignited by the heat of the sun. Neighbors coming to the rescue, the fire was extinguished after burning about half an acre of grain. On Saturday, a man riding on the Adobe road, three miles from Petaluma, threw a lighted cigar into the grass on the roadside, a gust of wind ignited it, and the flames soon spread to a grain field, burning over about an acre of cut wheat. By strenuous efforts the fire was subdued.

There is a soda mine in Nevada, of which the Carson Appeal makes the following mention. It is about sixty miles from here in the midst of a desert — the lowest portion thereof — is about seven acres in extent and of unknown depth, having been prospected in the pure article, with but slight interruption, down eighteen feet. At the depth of a few feet the soda is quarried with sledges and wedges, being more solid than ice, which in some respects it resembles in appearance. In the spring the mine is frequently several feet under water. We are informed that the quartz mills supplied with ore from the Comstock lode use about twenty tons of this soda per month, at a cost of about $40 per ton.

Some years ago, when Miss Harriet Martineau was visiting the pyramids of Egypt, she expressed regret that that the art by which the immense stones were raised to their places was lost. An English engineer therefore published an article in the London Times stating that any competent engineer could construct a pyramid equal to the largest in Egypt. The following facts would seem to prove that this is no idle boast. According to ancient authors, from 100,000 to 300,000 men were engaged for twenty years on the great pyramid; the sum of whose united labor has been estimated to be equal to raising 1,750,000 cubic feet of stone one foot high. The steam engines of England, as it has been estimated, would be able to do this in only eighteen hours. This would make the construction of pyramids similar to those in Egypt by no means an impossible work, providing anybody could be found foolish enough to undertake it.

The vote at the Judicial election in Illinois, which took place on the 2d inst., was very light. Not one-third of the vote in Chicago was polled.

The New Northwest.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

There are some persons, probably, yet living who recollect the vast Northwest Territory, out of which Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and the States on the upper Mississippi river, and those bordering on the great lakes, were carved. Then, in later times, we were accustomed to think of Minnesota Territory, now a State, as the extreme Northwest. The new empire of the Northwest is looming up and already indicating its future greatness. The Territories of Wyoming, Motana, Idaho and Washington, including the northern half of Oregon, comprise the vast empire of the new Northwest. Montana, last year, produced $10,000,000 of gold and silver. Agricultural societies have been organized in that Territory to stimulate the growing interests of agriculture. Wyoming is rich in coal as well as in the precious metals. Washington Territory exports lumber to the value of more than three millions annually, including that which is sent down the coast. Her fisheries, one of the great sources of future wealth, have hardly been developed at all. Idaho is rich in gold, and other minerals of which little notice has been taken.

The new Northwest embraces the great wheat fields of the future. Twenty years hence California will have lost its importance as a wheat-producing State. New wheat fields will be sought about the head waters of the Columbia and stretching away towards the navigable waters of the Upper Missouri. To what great commercial city on the Pacific coast will all this vast territory become tributary? For we assume that a maritime, and not an inland city will have the key of this trade. Grain, lumber, and gold and silver ores for export, will seek a tide-water city on the Pacific slope. Will a new city be founded and built upon Puget Sound which will yet compete with San Francisco for the bulk of this vast trade? The present currents of trade are really nothing more than mere eddies. The currents of future trade so far as this vast territory is concerned, are hardly indicated as yet. The Northern Pacific Railroad will have a powerful centralizing influence. But this will be overcome in part by the interlacing of railroads in the territories between the Northern Pacific and the Central Pacific Railroads. A city which buys its goods at second hand and has no import trade, whether it be on the coast or the interior, can never hold the key of this trade. The merchants in the States bordering upon the lakes, buy but a small part of their goods in Chicago, Detroit or Cleveland. They make small purchases in these cities, and larger ones in New York, the center of the great importing interest of the Atlantic States.

We assume that some great city on the Pacific coast will command the trade of this new northwest. There can never be a monopoly of it. But some maritime city will finally take the precedence. If San Francisco is to possess these advantages, they will not be acquired by merely sitting down and "figuring" in counting rooms. The merchants of the future will know how to grasp these advantages, or failing in this the trade will go elsewhere. Merchants will make their appearance here who will laugh at the pretentions of Chicago — men who will be as well known in all the great marts of Europe as are Chicago merchants in the small towns of Illinois. The truth is, this competing race has not yet begun. We have some exaggerated prophecies from the interior. But in this contest it is not the best talkers, but the best workers who will win.

WHAT IT COSTS TO DRESS A FASHIONABLE WIFE. — The New York Times, of May 31st, commenting upon the late Flynt-Coolidge case in Boston, remarks:

But observe the tact of this accomplished woman. She plays off one of her defaulting customer's fashionable friends against her. She commends to her notice the behavior of "Mrs. T." This faultless lady actually paid for her dresses beforehand. "Her bill was nearly four thousand dollars from January 1st to April 1st, and will far exceed that this season." And this is Boston economy! It has always been supposed that the ladies of Boston never ordered a new dress above once in a year, and prided themselves in not being "like those 'dreadful New York young women,' who always wear the latest fashions." ... has given a great shock to this ... Mrs. Flynt ... She declares that not only does ... superstition. ... thousands of dollars each ... "Mrs. T." pay ... perfectly satisfied." Mrs. ... season, but is ... whether the husband is ... Flynt does not tell us who ... merely goes ... "perfectly satisfied" also. ... patron that ... on to threaten the Revere House ... her. ... the newspapers will all be let loose ... "One of the best reporters is a particular friend of ours. The papers will be glad to publish such a novel and interesting trial, and it will be copied far and near. Our lawyer * * will get the thing done up in good style, be assured." We have not been able to accommodate Mrs. Flynt by publishing the full account of her novel trial, but so far as our abstract of her story goes, it tells very much in her favor. A customer complained that she had been grossly overcharged, and Mrs. Flynt threatens to expose her in the newspapers, and then institute an action against her. That is the only way to serve people who will not pay their bills. As for the class referred to in the heading of these lines, they will readily detect the moral of Mrs. Flynt's narrative, although it may not be the one she intended to convey. If a Boston lady cannot be "dressed" for less than a thousand dollars a season, what must it cost to embellish one of the unregenerate? This is a little calculation which engaged young men can work out by the "rule of proportion" at their leisure.

GEN. GRANT AT VICKSBURG. — A late number of the New York Sun has the following:

"During the war, when Gen. Grant was digging canals at Vicksburg; and was on the point of being relieved from his command, Dana did what he could to have him retained at the head of the army in the Mississippi valley, the effort was successful. But for his agency Grant would then have been sent back to Galena; and in that event he could neither have become Commander-in-Chief of the army nor President of the United States."

In response to the above the Chicago Republican, with great point, remarks as follows:

"We do not believe a single word of it. Since Grant has proved such a signal success, any quantity of people have been claiming that he was enabled to achieve greatness and prestige through their patronage or their interposition in his behalf. And now comes Pumblechook Dana, with the bold pretense that he is a "founder of fortunes." Our belief waits upon proof. Dogmatic assertion is a stale device. Give us chapter and verse — circumstance and date. We bear in mind that President Lincoln, shortly after the fall of Vicksburg, wrote to Gen. Grant, saying in so many words, "You was right and I was wrong." This letter was published to the world at the time, and was commented on as a signal instance of Lincoln's candor. He had felt much anxiety over the military situation, and differed widely from the General in the policy and safety of his strategic movement into the enemy's country; but never even for an instant had he, according to his own public avowal, entertained the idea of displacing Grant and turning over his command to another officer. Dana, as Assistant Secretary of War, was nothing more than a head clerk in a Department, and had no more influence over the destiny of Grant than Pemberton himself.

The monument to Joshua R. Giddings has been received at Ashtabula, Ohio, and will be put in place as soon as proper arrangements can be made.

A Cry of Rage and Alarm.

It is quite gratifying to see that the Herald is in a good deal of tribulation at the prospect that the Democratic managers in Wasco county, who set up and put through a high-handed scheme to carry that county, regardless of the rights of their political opponents, stand a remarkably good chance to be called to an account. That paper whines and begs and implores, and deprecates the enforcement of the law, —of which law it has a poor opinion indeed. For the Democrats were bound to have Wasco county, no matter what they had to do to get it, and now it is mean and contemptible for Republicans who were refused the privilege of voting to come after them with that odious law of Congress and threaten them with the penalties for such cases made and provided!

Prior to the election the local politicians of the Democratic party in Wasco county openly affirmed that they intended to rule out Republican votes enough to insure the election of their ticket. They boldly declared that they had refused to appoint a Republican judge or clerk of election in the county, so that they could have it all their own way, reject as many Republican votes as they liked, and do whatever else it might be necessary to do to obtain a Democratic majority. All the judges of election throughout the county were instructed by the central clique at Dalles to reject every Republican vote that could be rejected on any pretext no matter how trivial, the thing was figured down beforehand, and Democrats in each precinct were instructed not to allow the Republicans on any account to get in more than a specified number of votes, no matter what it might be necessary to do to prevent it. In pursuance to this plan a large number of Republican votes were rejected, and of course the whole Democratic ticket was declared "elected." Had the Republican voters of the county exceeded the Democratic at the rate of two to one, the result would have been the same. It was a general system of fraud and outrage, planned with deliberation and executed according to a settled purpose. But it seems as if the Democracy never can carry out a good thing like this and enjoy its fruits without being molested by some act of "tyrannical Radical legislation." This time the law to enforce the fifteenth amendment has caught them. Among other acts done in the Democratic interest in Wasco, a number of colored votes were purposely excluded. But when a colored vote was found that could be secured for the Democratic ticket it was joyfully accepted. Every vote of that sort was perfectly legitimate and constitutional!

It so happens that this "tyrannical" law, devised for the purpose of harrying the Democracy in cases like that under present consideration, prescribes heavy penalties, and is, altogether, an ugly thing,—that is to say, ugly for those who employ such means as the Wasco Democracy resorted to. Having tried this same plan on a small scale with brilliant success two years ago, the Wasco Democracy made it general and systematic this year, unmindful of the fact that the aforesaid "tyrannical" law had been enacted since their first experiment. And now the machinery of the United States Court is to be applied to the case. The Democratic organ accuses Judge Wilson of urging the prosecution on. It says he is pushing this thing into Court "in order to get even on some of those who contributed to his defeat," and adds with withering indignation that such an act is "the most undignified and contemptible in which any man in his position could be caught figuring!" What a nice appreciation of the proprieties of politics, to be sure! We don't know whether Judge Wilson is doing anything to bring to punishment those who are guilty of the outrage in Wasco, or not; but if he is, and makes the prosecution successful, every honest man in the State will think the better of him for it. Meantime we shall enjoy as much as possible these cries of rage and alarm from the Democratic organ. Its party in Wasco had the thing their way in the election, and it is time now for a change in the programme.

The Chinese Problem at the East.

We of the Pacific coast are no longer to have a monopoly of the discussion of the Chinese question. All the Eastern papers are opening on the subject. The appearance of a few Chinese laborers at the East has set all the journalists, lecturers and philosophers at work on the problem. Nobody there is guilty of the folly of demanding the abrogation of our treaties with China and the closing of this country against the voluntary immigration of Chinese; but all insist that Chinese should not be brought here on contracts bound to long terms of service. North Adams, a small town in Massachusetts, has become famous within a few weeks as the place where the first effort has been made to introduce Chinese operatives. But the Crispins, it is now announced, are determined not to be supplanted in their business by the new comers, and are starting a great shoe factory of their own at North Adams, on the co-operative principle. Some days ago the New York Tribune presented the following considerations on this subject:

> There is a remedy for the conflict between the Coolies and Crispins in North Adams. It does not lie proscribing the men who work for cheap wages—in efforts to blow up their factories—in threats against the lives of their employers. All these are the devices of a barbarous era, when people supposed there was a necessary conflict between Capital and Labor. They are as idle as were the combinations against street-sweeping machines, against the introduction of Arkwright's spinning jennies, or the Jacquard loom. Men have the right to work for as low wages as they choose, employers have the right to hire them, and we shall only involve ourselves in endless trouble by denying either. Supply and demand will fix the price of labor, as do they the price of the products of labor. But when laborers become their own employers the case is bravely altered. Let the Crispins, thrown out of employment by the Coolies, make shoes on their own account; and, our word for it, they will neither strike against their employers nor quarrel about the rate of wages. Half the money spent in supporting even the briefest strike would establish a successful shoe manufactory owned and controlled by the shoemakers. That done the present danger seems averted. Co-operation is the the key to the solution of the North Adams problem.

There are indications of a war in Europe, growing out of the election of Leopold, a prince of the house of Hohenzollern, to the throne of Spain. Both France and Austria protest against it as unsettling the "balance of power" in Europe. Since the last European war waged between Prussia and Austria, and which terminated so disastrously for the latter power on the field of Sadowa, the predominance of Prussia in German affairs has been great, and her influence in European politics, generally, has been watched by other nations with some apprehension. The prince elected to fill the throne of Spain is of the same house to which the reigning dynasty of Prussia belongs. Hence the opposition of Austria and France, who look with jealousy upon any further movement to augment Prussian influence in the politics of Europe. But Prussia, it is stated, is preparing to maintain the claims of the Hohenzollern prince, and if this is true it is not easy to see how a war can be averted. Nevertheless as these are times of diplomacy we find that pacific councils generally prevail in the end, and a great many of the black and thunderous war clouds that rise and overshadow the nations pass over without bursting.

The newspapers throughout the State speak of Judge Williams' answer to his assailants on the railroad question as strong in statement and conclusive in argument. The Albany Register says "the letter covers the whole ground and leaves nothing more to be said on the subject." The judgment of other papers that have spoken of it is quite similar. It is noticeable that the Herald, which made such a hue and cry about this matter before the election, has not one word to say about Williams' reply, thereby virtually admitting that it is convincing and unanswerable.

We have received a long letter entitled, "Considerations Upon the Recent Election," which we deem it hardly necessary to print. But it contains one observation which may as well be given to the world. The writer says that he has noticed that, "in those places where the money of Mr. Ladd and the influence of Logan were thrown for the Democrats, the Republicans did better than elsewhere." This discovery has been made by many, and somewhat extensively commented on.

POLITICAL ITEMS.

Andrew Johnson has had no thought of becoming a candidate for Congress in the First Tennessee District. Col. James White is the Conservative candidate, and R. R. Butler, the present incumbent, is the Radical nominee.

A California paper shows that it has the exact measure of Gov. Grover of Oregon, when it intimates that during the rebellion he had not courage enough to be an outspoken secessionist and rebel, and had not patriotism enough to be an upholder of the Union cause.

The Boston Journal says there will be three candidates in the field for Governor of Massachusetts, and in all probability the Republicans will have as their standard bearer Gov. Claflin. The Democrats will again rally round Col. John Quincy Adams, and the Labor Reform party will put up Mr. Colby, of Newburyport. Among the local political questions of next fall in the Western part of the State, the Chinese question will come up.

Some of the Democratic papers of California as well as of Oregon, have come squarely out for repudiation, but the leading organs of the party on this coast endeavored to conceal the hated term under a financial "equitable adjustment" sugar coated. The Cincinnati Enquirer which represents the Democratic party in that State, thus expounds its principles, and gives the reasons why the Democracy do not inscribe "repudiation" on their banners. Hear it: "The Democracy of Ohio are now divided, and only divided, upon the point whether any portion of the debt should be paid at all. A large and perhaps a controlling section of the party, here in the west, are for open and undisguised repudiation. Another division adheres to the old vows and favors the payment with greenbacks, not at par in gold, but greenbacks worth what they were when the debt was taken. The diversity of sentiment was such that it was not thought advisable to make any distinct declaration at this time."

A letter writer in Washington remarks on the "shrinking of distances" now traveled by members of Congress as compared with the distances or rather the amount charged therefor. In 1859 the mileage of Senators amounted to $75,911; in 1869, with six more Senators, it was but $29,312-40. In the House the mileage in 1859 in round numbers was $363,090; in 1869, 159,000. The mileage has been reduced one-half; but this is less than that. The distances have "shrunk." Thus Mr. Johnson, of Arkansas, used to charge 4,000 miles from Washington to Little Rock; Mr. Rice makes it a full thousand less. Mr. Grover, of Missouri, made his distance 3,500 miles; while Mr. Drake now reports 1,500. Mr. Gwin, of California used to receive about $6,000 for mileage; Mr. Cole now receives $1,300. Jesse D. Bright made a bill of $800 each way, Governor Morton only gets $350 a year. Doctor Fitch, reported $2,557, and received $1,146; his fellow-townsman, Newton Pratt makes the distance 1,200 shorter, and obtains only $330 for both ways; David Thurman reported a distance of 2,636 miles from northern Indiana, but Mr. Colfax finds 800 miles less. Jefferson Davis used to take $1,600 for a reputed distance of 4,000 miles; his successor, Mr. Revels, lives 150 miles further away, reports a thousand miles less, and receives a thousand dollars less. We are past the days of "Democratic economy" in this respect, that's evident.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Dickens is said to have given in "Mr. Wilkins Micawber" a playful and extravagant portrait of his father, Mr. John Dickens, an impecunious clerk in the naval pay office, whose overdue "notes" Charles collected and paid.

The New York Independent speaks of the question as to the "The Religion of Charles Dickens" as "truly Pecksniffian," and says: Having for many years enjoyed the ministry both of Charles Dickens and of Henry Ward Beecher, we give it as our opinion that the preaching of the one has always been as Christian as that of the other.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Times says that Attorney General Akerman "is a man of medium and spare stature, scrupulously neat in his personal appearance, and in physique very must like ex-Attorney General Evarts. He has an affable manner, with a quiet self-possession, which make him at the same time easy of approach and dignified of demeanor."

A statement, which we are glad to learn is untrue, is going the rounds of the press and doing injury to the feelings of all the friends of Gen. Robert Anderson, the hero of Fort Sumter. It is stated that he is living at Tours, France, with an income so small that he can hardly meet the expenses of his family, and is absolutely suffering from poverty. The Cincinnati Chronicle, of Saturday, states, however, that the General owns a farm in Clinton county Ohio, of almost 400 acres, worth at a low estimate $15,000, and can be sold at any time for that sum.

The Chicago Times, Democratic, edited by W. F. Story, who had a difficulty some time since with the "Blondes" in the street, remarked lately that the Democracy of New York, in endeavoring to make themselves as odious as possible, proposed to run the well known blackguard, Brick Pomeroy, for Congress. Brick, it is said, regards this as kind, "Coming as it does from W. F. Story, a man who was horsewhipped in the streets by a woman for blackguarding herself and friends;" a man who "has not enough friends in any society to nominate him for Congress or any other office."

The Chicago Republican says: Colonel John Brownlow, son of Senator Brownlow, writes from Washington to a friend in this city, under date of the 29th inst., as follows: "Father is steadily improving. Ever since his trip to New York he has been getting better. With improved health he is recovering his old buoyant spirits, and he is hopeful that no rebel will occupy his seat until after the 4th of March 1873. Ex Surgeon General whom he consulted in New York, gave a most favorable opinion of his case; said complete restoration to health was possible, and very great relief absolutely certain.

A Canadian was killed by lightning a few days ago, and the Coroner found a Fenian subscription paper in his pocket with $400 subscribed, of which $40 was by a prominent town official. The discovery has created great excitement, and Canada is suspicious that the Fenians on her own soil are more to be feared than all those in the United States. Those who signed this paper are liable to suffer death.

The County Judgeship of Baker county is to be contested between L. O. Stearns (Rep.) and J. D. McFarland (Dem.)

OREGON.

Some farmers near Salem have begun cutting their grain.

At Albany wheat is selling at 75 cents. Oats 35 and 40 cents, with very limited stock on the the market.

Robert T. Stutsman of Baker county, has been appointed by Congressman Smith to fill a vacancy at the Military Academy at West Point.

Michael O'Laughlin was sentenced at Salem, on Saturday, to three years imprisonment in the Penitentiary. He was in the affray at Butteville last spring which resulted in the death of Daily.

The Farmer says it is understood that the Depot of the Oregon and California Railroad, in Salem, will be located across Mill Creek, south of the Oil Mill, where about fifteen acres have been given for that purpose by the Trustees of Willamette University.

The Baker City Democrat says that a few days ago a fatal accident occurred in a mining claim on Muddy creek in Baker county. A company of Chinamen were ground sluicing in the claim when the bank caved on them very suddenly, killing three outright and crippling two others.

The Albany Register says Mr. J. H. Douthit has completed the selection of lands granted by the United States Government to found an Agricultural College in Oregon. The amount donated was 90,000 acres, all of which has been located in the valleys of Goose Lake, Lost River, Sprague River, Summer Lake, and one or two other little valleys.

There is a contest over the County Judgeship in Linn county. Judge Johns, on demand being made, refused to "hand over the keys" to J. J. Whitney, Esq., the newly elected County Judge. Johns, who has held the office two years, contends that he has two years more to serve before his time is up.

The Statesman says that Patrick Brown, who escaped some time ago from the Penitentiary, is supposed to have been heard from, as such a man was seen at several places inquiring where the Barlow road took over the mountains. The man seen answers the description of Brown, and was quite lame. The same party that caught the other escaped convicts are in pursuit of him.

There is a "setting rooster" in Albany. He has been on a nest of eggs for about two weeks. The females of his harem have probably asserted their "rights" and put him on the nest, while they have gone out on the dunghill to put on lordly airs and crow stridulously. Of course he is a badly "henpecked" rooster. The Democrat says that among his other virtues which shine so conspicuously in the hennery, he also "lays over" anything extant. Won't somebody at Albany write to the Revolution an account of the domestic virtues of this fowl?

Some of the Albany people went on an excursion to the Linn county soda springs on the Fourth of July. Mrs. D. writes to the Register: "We had no tedious oration, no deafening cannon, no star spangled banners, no Declaration of Independence—nothing but swinging and sunshine, and a scant supply of soda water. And the people swung and fanned and perspired and toiled back up the hill for a "little more soda," and met old friends and laughed and gossipped, while the children cried and "wanted to go home," only to get shaken and scolded and fanned, and fed by tired parents in search of a holiday. We drank the spring dry, and were not yet satisfied. Woe unto the unfortunate philanthropist who sought to replenish our bright tin dippers! Better for him had been a shady nook in some quiet corner where his patriotism could get higher than his perspiration!"

THE TERRITORIES.

Governor Shaffer, of Utah, in a letter to a gentleman in Washington, says that upon the passage of the polygamy bill depends his efficiency in office. He admits that the peculiar institution is much weaker than it was before the days of railroads, but still Young and his followers act with great arrogance.

The day before Spotted Tail got home, twenty miles above Fort Randall, his favorite wife died. She was sick when he went away, and she was very much concerned in regard to her during his absence. He looks upon her death as "bad medicine." All the presents he had brought home with him from Washington, including the meerschaum pipe presented to him by the President, were buried in her grave.

South Pass advices of the 25th ult. state that Indians have stolen ninety-eight head of horses and mules. Citizens pursued, but owing to the absence of their horses could not overtake the thieves. The bodies of Dr. Bard, Harry Morgan and Mason, were recovered. Morgan was scalped and the kingbolt of a wagon driven through his skull and the tendons of his back extracted for bow strings. These depredations were committed by Arrapahoes and Sioux.

The Shoshones, says the White Pine News, are in from their clover fields, and are giving their attention to cards. A few talented Piutes are fleecing their brethren from the hills very handsomely. They are high-toned gamblers, and stop at nothing when they lose. It is no uncommon occurrence for one of these bloods to lose his money, and then his hat and boots, and from that on to the last vestige of clothing (their clothing comes mostly in vestiges), and get up stark naked and start for other scenes.

Gen Sheridan returned on the 25th June to his headquarters at Chicago, after a long tour through the Indian country on the plains. The most distant point he visited was Fort Benton. His object was to become better acquainted with the vast region known as the "Indian country" and the real situation of affairs as respects the Indians and the white settlers and Government troops at the various military posts. During the entire journey he was not molested by Indians, but while passing through the country possessed by the more hostile tribes he had an escort of cavalry. He found the friendly Indians quite communicative, and all seemed to be desirous of receiving presents from the Government, and especially guns and ammunition, with which to fight the Sioux.

CURRENT NOTES.

Governor Baker, of Indiana, refuses to appoint delegates to the National Capital Removal Convention in Cincinnati, in October, saying as it is designed to be a popular convention, it is, in his judgment essential that the delegates be appointed by the people if they desire to be represented.

Jacob Thompson, of Clearmont county, Ohio, was ploughing in his field lately, when the plow unearthed a bee's nest. The bees enraged the horse and he ran away, injuring himself so that it was thought necessary to shoot him. In attempting to do this the gun was prematurely discharged, wounding Mr. Thompson fatally.

On the 27th June the Common Council of Richmond adopted a resolution declining to receive the Jefferson Davis Presidential Mansion back on terms proposed by the United States Government—that is, not to charge rent for the time of its occupancy as headquarters for the military. They ask that rent be paid and the building restored to its former condition.

Already the Summer fashions are approaching upon the streets of the Indian villages in Wisconsin, and they are attracting a great deal of attention. One of the Wisconsin papers describes a suit worn by a boy five year old. It consists of a garter tied around the left leg! The blighting influences of civilization have not yet extended to the aborigines of Wisconsin.

The new city of Duluth, at the head of Lake Superior, promises itself great things from the completion of the North Pacific railroad, and, with a laudable ambition, expects to become a metropolis. It bases its chances on these points: the grain trade of the lakes, the lumber trade, the upper trade of Lake Superior, the trade in fish, and the through Pacific trade.

The steamers Lee and Natchez recently ran a race from New Orleans to Cairo. The former made the run in the unprecedented time of three days and one hour. The latter was one hour and twelve minutes behind. The boats were coaled by tugs without stopping. There was heavy betting on the result. The Natchez lost thirty six minutes by breaking a pump.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO JULY 9.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—In the Senate, the army appropriation bill was taken up, and the amendment of the Committee on appropriations diminishing the amount for pay of the army to $707,-000 was withdrawn. Wilson offered as an amendment the principal features of the army bill laid on the table recently. After several modifications it was adopted, and the bill as amended passed.

The bill amendatory of the bankrupt act, to extend the operation of part of the law to brokers, manufacturers and miners, passed.

In executive session action on the nomination of the Collector of New York was postponed till Monday. Noah Davis was confirmed as Attorney for New York vice Judge Pierrepont. R. S. Green as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Washington Territory, F. A. Mathews, of California, Consul at Tangier, J. C. Bennett, Consul at Chihuahua, and H. M. Senter, Receiver of Public Moneys at Olympia, W. T.

In the House, the following Senate amendments were concurred in: Reducing the income tax to 2½ per cent. and limiting the allowance for rent to $500; reducing the duty on steel railway bars from 1¼ to 1⅛ cents per pound; reducing the duty on live animals from 30 to 20 per cent., and allowing their importation free, for putting on the free list household goods of families returning or emigrating from foreign countries, not exceeding $500; allowing the putting up of tobacco in metallic packages and transportation from ports of delivery to other ports of entry in bond. The following amendments were nonconcurred in: Striking out the paragraphs in relation to nickel and albeta. German silver and mixed metals have been reduced, and the duty on smoking opium from 10 to 6 cents per pound.

The Internal Revenue receipts this month are $2,500,000. Coin balance in Treasury, $119,237,-845. Currency balance in Treasury, $[illegible],197,853. Coin certificates, $36,283,500.

Republican Congressional Executive Committee organized by the election of Senator Wilson, as chairman, and J. H. Platt, secretary. Democratic National Committee organized with Samuel Randall, President and J. N. Jeffreys, Secretary.

BY THE CABLES.

PARIS, July 9.—The war rumor excitement is increasing with great activity at Toulon and other French ports on the Mediterranean. A large number of tranports are being fitted up enough to bring home the entire French army in Algeria. Circulars have been issued recalling to their command all officers, also soldiers absent on furloughs. Large quantities of powder and war stores are being conveyed to the strong holds on the eastern frontier.

Prussia's answer to France on the subject of the Spanish throne, which has doubtless been received, contains the following points:

First: Disclaiming all participation in the candidature of Hohenzollern; second, that the Prince is not even a relative of the Prussian royal family; third, Prim has negotiated with the Prince and he must be responsible and not Prussia. It is believed the answer is unsatisfactory.

8 p. m.—The second division of the army of Paris has been ordered to Chalons.

CITY.

[illegible] INQUEST.—Saturday evening just after the departure of the steamer Mr. S. J. Randall, of the Willamette Iron Works, while pulling a boat near [illegible] Point, East Portland, discovered the body of a drowned man. The body was at once towed to the shore. The discovery being made known to the Coroner, he summoned a jury and held an inquest. The body was recognized by the same night. The body was that of George Campbell, who several years resided at East Portland. [illegible] the Coroner's jury as follows: [illegible] the jury impanneled to inquire into the cause of the death of the person found in the Willamette river [illegible] Point, at East Portland, do render the following verdict: That the deceased was George Campbell, aged about 35 years, and came to his death by drowning, but whether accidental or suicidal the jury are unable to determine. [illegible] Johnson, foreman, [illegible] H. Glenn, J. W. Pratt, J. J. Farquar and Patrick Quinn.

The body was in a state of decay which indicated that it had lain in the water for six or seven days. There was a wound over one eye, which Dr. Rafferty testified was not sufficient to cause death, but which, if received at the moment of falling into the water, might have so stunned the man as to cause him to drown before recovering from its effects.

OUR FOREIGN COMMERCE.—During the second quarter of this year our foreign imports amounted to [illegible],000, foreign exports, to $65,220. Differ[illegible] against us $[illegible]. Foreign vessels entered [illegible], with tonnage of [illegible], cleared, none. The number of American vessels casually in for[illegible] trade, nine, tonnage, 5,163. Of this class, entered, eight, tonnage, 4,597. Coast vessels entered [illegible], tonnage 26,129; cleared 72, tonnage, [illegible]

This compares with the first quarter of this year as follows: Total value of foreign exports first quarter $55,[illegible], being $[illegible] less than in second quarter. Value of imports first quarter, [illegible], being $9[illegible] less than in second quarter. Total foreign exports for the six months, $107,[illegible]; total foreign imports for six months $102,141. Balance in our favor $680.

[illegible] MEN.—The Herald of yesterday relates the following case of sharp practice by a brace of wholesome men in this city. "On Thursday last, two well-dressed and smooth-tongued sharpers went to the house of a poor washerwoman. They stated they were strangers here, and that they had some goods containing some very valuable articles detained on board of the Victoria steamer, to obtain which it was necessary for them to have $30. They did not possess that sum, they said, but one of them had a costly watch, and he was willing to sacrifice the watch to obtain the needed $30. The woman thought this a good opportunity to help herself, she procured the money and paid the rogues, who decamped without delay. Of course the woman found, when she made inquiries, that the watch was literally worthless."

COUNTY COURT—HAMILTON, JUDGE.—Saturday, July 9th.

In the matter of the estate of W. M. King, deceased; petition for the sale of property granted.

The Commissioners sitting with the Judge, [illegible] a number of bills against the county, after which the court adjourned till Monday at 10 A. M.

RAILROAD INCORPORATION.—On Saturday articles of incorporation were filed by the Willamette Valley Railroad Co.—incorporators, Ben Holladay, C. H. Lewis and T. Savier. Capital stock, $5,000,000, in shares of $100. Principal business office to be at Portland. This company proposes to build a railroad and telegraph line from Portland to McMinnville, and to a junction with the Oregon and California Railroad at or near Eugene City; and from McMinnville to Astoria, to comply with conditions and requirements of the act of Congress entitled, "An act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from Portland to Astoria and McMinnville, in the State of Oregon." The Company is the successor of the Oregon Central Railroad Company.

RAISING A "MEAT HOUSE."—We have all heard people talk, at times, about pitching into other peoples' "meat houses," the expression being a sort of threat of violence. Well, a meat house has finally suffered the calamity of being pitched into. The Okanogan, in trying to effect a landing at Welch's fishery at Cathlamet Bay the other day, there being a high wind at the time, ran head first into Mr. W.'s salmon shed and knocked it into "pi," letting down a lot of barreled salmon. This was not a case, however, of hostile intent, and consequently, the barrels were picked up and there was no wounded honor to settle for.

CIRCUIT COURT—UPTON, JUDGE.—Proceedings of Saturday, July 9th.

Willamette Iron Works vs John Nation and L. Besser; motion to strike out part of answer sustained.

Oregon Iron Works vs A. C. Gibbs et al; demurrer to complaint sustained, and leave to amend.

Josiah Melvin vs Henry Bird; judgment rendered in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $26.

Adjourned until Monday at 10 A. M.

CANNED SALMON AND CLAMS.—We have received from D. W. Ellis & Co., specimen cans of salmon and clams put up at their fishery at Chinook, W. T. The company commenced canning [illegible] this year, but they have put up something over [illegible] cans. The fish are of superior quality on account of being taken directly after leaving the ocean, when they are very fat and healthy. Ellis & Co. have thus far shipped most of their canned salmon direct to Boston, where they have an excellent reputation. The clams are caught by Indians and are put up fresh, the same day, and are much sought for.

THE RIVER.—The waters of the Columbia and Wallamet have subsided so that now the lower wharves of the city front are again in sight. An old river man, yesterday, informed us that he had been on the rivers ever since 1850, and had never seen the waters high for so long a time as this year. The rise usually [illegible] in June and is down again by the first of July, but this year it came early in May and has stayed at high stage ever since. It is [illegible] within the last few days that any of the lower wharves could be used.

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship California sailed for San Francisco at 7 o'clock Saturday evening with the following list of passengers: Eli Marks, [illegible] Barnes, Col. Gibson, D. E. Haydon, Mrs. H. Meier and daughter, [illegible] A. Darling, [illegible], D. H. Taylor and wife, Miss Emma [illegible], Mrs. J. H. Hatch, J. [illegible] Gardner and wife, [illegible] W. S. Gardner, [illegible] Bunnell, C. Kamm, [illegible] Peters, H. N. Chauncey, W. Buffman, W. [illegible] messenger and [illegible] in the steerage.

VOCAL AND INSTRUMENTAL CONCERT.—A number of amateur musicians announce a Grand Vocal and Instrumental Concert, in aid of the German and Hebrew [illegible], to be given at Philharmonic Hall on Thursday evening, 21st inst. Misses Annie and Minnie Pixley, and the 23d Infantry Band have volunteered to assist. Tickets may be had in advance at McCormick and at Hillmans.

EARLY [illegible].—We notice that on the exposed sides of [illegible] considerable proportion of the fruit has been injured by "baking," during the late hot weather. The [illegible] of the apples next the sun are [illegible] so as to render them utterly worthless. We have never seen fruit injured in like manner in former years, even when the weather was much hotter than during last week.

PERSONAL.—Sam. A. Moreland, who is [illegible] altogether unknown to the readers of the OREGONIAN, has opened his Justice's office at 105 Front street, where he will be found ready to dispense justice to those who want it, as well as to those who don't want it. The latter class of people had better not go there.

BAILEY'S HIPPODROME.—This circus will open their pavilion, corner of Morrison and Fifth streets, to-morrow evening.

The Capitalists, So Called

The Albany D has a long article on the sale of west side railroad franchise and the ridiculous de of the capitalists (so called) of Portland. We copy a few paragraphs

As known since this West Side Company has taken leave of the public and its chief manipulators have retired from the conspicuous positions that they have occupied common gratitude and custom demands that we shall remember and magnify to the uttermost the little good they did. The stage upon which the curtain has just dropped was not a remarkably busy one. The distinguished capitalists principal achievement, to use a slang phrase was "fuss and feathers." They went to work building a railroad, very much as the Chinese go into a battle—with stink pots and gongs. And if they failed, still they are entitled to the credit of having raised a deal of smoke and having provoked a marvellous noise which after all when we look at the names of the stockholders is a thing much to their credit

The manner in which these men originally possessed themselves of the organization of the Company and the subtle intellect that they displayed in the secret agreement are not proper matters for public and they shall not be mentioned here. However indifferent the use for railroad purposes was that they made of the organization, it is not to be disputed that there was a magic in the way they used it to make subscriptions to the With it they smote the pockets and granaries of the people of Washington and Yamhill counties as Moses smote the rock and forth with there gushed forth a stream of small change flour oats and other country produce. They coveted the land grant, but they did not get it. This was unfortunate. If they got it they would have had more to sell, and, having more to sell might have achieved a bigger thing

They persuaded many persons to ignore all other circumstances and support them because they were of the West Side and induced a belief among citizens of the West Side that they had been robbed of the grant sold out, etc, and though robbed and sold out were hyperbolical then the people of the West Side are doubtless capable of knowing whether or not they are now literally true. The distinguished capitalists have given unmistakable indices of both shrewdness and sense in getting into the company and in getting out of it. The former was the inspiration of genius, the latter the deliberations of wisdom

Capital is sensitive (we give Mr Ben Reed the compliment of quoting him) and therefor the capital of the capitalists shrunk from the touch of railroad contractors. It was easier to take $70 000 than pay $50 000 and so Mr Holladay a most dreadful monopolist became the owner of the west side franchises. It was terrible to think that Mr Holladay should be the owner of two railroads in Oregon. How shall the people become reconciled to his becoming the owner of two? It is painful to think that the people on both sides of the river must pay tribute—yes tribute is the word—to this man for carrying their freight when such disinterested persons as the six capitalists were willing to take the tribute from one side themselves and would have built the road if somebody could only have been found willing to give them the money to do it with

The Den of a Paris Student. What a quaint museum of room was that little garret of his shut in by the roof, which came bluntly down and cut off the larger part of its front side leaving scant space for windows, and in consequence of which he could not rise without being in full possession of his presence of mind the danger of head-bumping was so imminent. The floor was carpetless of course, bare bricks being the softest solace to the feet excepting here and there a rude mat relieved their cheerlessness. The walls were simply whitewashed and that long go. But the room was nevertheless, somehow attractive. It was full of the most suggestive odds and ends giving plentiful hints of the tastes and habits of its occupant. The narrow closet was carefully piled up with bottles full and empty of l'eau from the walls hung not only cheap prints representing the many stars of the ballet and the Prado famous singers and actors curiously mixed up with engraved copies from the old masters and notable historical or classical tableaux but likewise quaint croquis of the student's own handiwork mostly caricature portraits of his friends and half unshaded squibs which he thought good enough for the illustrated papers. That he was not lacking in the luxury of self esteem was apparent from the many [illegible] hopeless the fourth floor and living in [illegible] his pipes of all [illegible] work many [illegible] the fire place [illegible] curious culinary appliances [illegible] black looking pot which was [illegible] [illegible] of his famous exploits [illegible] I was wont to sit there [illegible] happy [illegible] talker than this red haired student [illegible] — the Lake Quarter [illegible]

Our Citizens certainly deserve credit for the energy they display to make the Oregon Immigration and Labor Exchange a success and benefit to the State, as well as the immigrant coming to our State. Every citizen should give all the aid in their power to help the large number of strangers coming to our State and not forget to inform them that Kohn & Fishel No. 91 Front street, have the largest stock of clothing in Oregon other goods are of superior quality and sold at extreme low prices.

Athens as it is—A Description by Rev Newman Hall

The Pall Mall recently published a letter from Athens, by Dr. Newman Hall in which we find a few reminiscences of the classic capital of Greece as it strikes a tourist of to day

We landed in the harbor of Piraeus on Monday the 11th of May. The scene was beautiful. I knew that at any third rate European port for a while. I have no fears what [illegible] After [illegible] luggage [illegible] waiting [illegible] the train started for Athens [illegible] In a few minutes all [illegible] [illegible] our [illegible] when we stopped near the Temple of Theseus [illegible] proportions

With the pencil of more than twenty centuries [illegible] purest style [illegible] of the columns [illegible] first [illegible] sculptured [illegible] one of the most ancient and most perfect specimens [illegible] the Doric [illegible] its proportions are so perfect that [illegible] majesty [illegible] six columns in the portico at [illegible] thirteen along the sides [illegible] the [illegible] columns twice. But we could only glance at this temple for just above rose the Acropolis in majestic beauty crowned with the ruins of the Parthenon

A few minutes sufficed at the hotel [illegible] arrangements, and then we hastened to inspect [illegible] wonderful relics. Our route was [illegible] building [illegible] void which [illegible] temple of Olympian Jove. Sixteen of its [illegible] columns [illegible] stand together in an imposing cluster. They are of the purest white marble though now slightly stained by age. They are six feet in diameter and 57 feet high. One has recently fallen. I measured the capital, which is eight feet square at the top yet as they stand each is so light and elegant that you might suppose only one man instead of twelve could stand on the top. Just below was a narrow stream running under a very modern bridge. It was the Ilyssus. Beyond it [illegible] is a lofty mountain range apparently about six miles distant. It was Hymettus. Now we turned toward the Acropolis. On the [illegible] the rock we saw the theatre of Dionysius its seats cut in the rock. We went on to the west [illegible] of the theater of Herodes [illegible] partially [illegible] the side of the Acropolis. We mounted at the back of it and by a wooden gate [illegible] a soldier who guards the spot from injury we entered the sacred precincts

I was overwhelmed with the glories of the Propylaea its lofty and broad flight of marble steps its grand pillars and the remains of its beautiful sculpture. On our right was the elegant little Temple of Victory. Vast blocks of marble lay about in wild confusion, obstructing your making your path up the sublime entrance to the most sublime shrine of the heathen world. Some of the blocks of marble in the architrave of the entrance are 20 feet in length. On passing the portal the Parthenon appears a little to the right so that it shows not only its mighty front but its side in glorious perspective of columns. I need not detail its features—the eight columns of its portico so grand in their Doric simplicity the rich fragments of sculpture and skill remaining in its frieze, the perfection of combined beauty and simplicity which all the ravages of war and all the cannon balls lying about among the ruins have failed to obliterate. In the centre of the rocky platform and at the side of the temple rose the gigantic bronze image of Minerva whose glittering helmet soared above every other object and was seen from Piraeus and Salamis and far off at sea. On our left were the remains of an Ionic temple, the Erechtheum with its Caryatid's supporting one of its porticos. We looked down over the parapet upon modern Athens—a clean pleasant town of about 40 000 inhabitants. Every moment of the time has been well occupied in gazing upon and sketching these and other objects of interest.

We have been in the cavern prison of Socrates. We have stood on the rock Bema or rostrum where Demosthenes used to address the great assembly of the citizens. We have been fascinated while contemplating the remnants of the great wall which surrounded the place of meeting, built in Cyclopean style of blocks of stone eight and ten feet square. We have sat and meditated on Mars Hill where Paul preached to the men of Athens looked up direct on the Acropolis from which it is distant only about two hundred yards. It is a rock about sixty feet high, its surface in its natural state with ancient steps cut in it. I can only add that all my anticipations of Athens are far surpassed

The Life Sustaining Organs.

The two organs which minister most directly to the support of the body are the stomach and liver. In the former the first process of digestion takes place under the action of that powerful solvent the gastric juice. Thence the food converted into a pulp, passes into the duodenum where it is subjected to the action of the bile or gall flowing from the liver and of the fluid generated by the pancreas or sweet bread of the system. These secretions separate the nutritious portion from the rest and the lacteals take it up by the absorbent vessels and convey it to the channels of circulation in the form of venous blood while the waste matter is discharged through the bowels. Manufactory Established in June, 1851.

STEAM POWER NOS 685 AND 687 FRONT ST

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice

Pretty Sisters' Brothers.

From Cassell's Magazine.

There are certain men who seem to have no recognized status amongst their fellows except such as they gain from some one section of their existence. The only existence they are known [illegible] to [illegible] acquaintance relates to this [illegible].

"Beaumont? Oh, don't you know? Son of Jenkins and Figg the great provision [illegible]. That lively little man, with the big moustache? Ideal! Montmorency's husband, you know, and all that, you know?"

Any more personal [illegible] than this such individuals have not [illegible] completely overshadowed by their surroundings, and provoke no more comment than the bunting of a [illegible], or the orchestra of a second rate theatre.

Pre-eminent amongst such men, in eminence there is a band of [illegible], are pretty sisters' brothers.

Without any special qualities of his own, without being more commonplace than other youths, without being less self asserting, a man of this class nevertheless has, in the eyes of his friends, only one qualification for friendship; and that, to be Hibernian, belongs to some one else. He is the pretty sister's brother. In reality he may be all sorts of other things—a genius, a fool, a jolly good fellow, or a morose cub; to the world he is nothing more nor less than the brother of Miss Beauxyeux. This curious and anomalous position he retains for a period coincident with the unappropriated charms of the lady; and on the approach of her marriage or the decline of her good looks, he subsides once more into a distinct though humble individuality, as quickly as he had risen by these extraneous aids.

For his rise is generally very sudden. He shoots up from jackets and lessons and lollipops to tailcoats, afternoon promenades, and ices; like a penny newspaper made into the tail of a kite. He goes to bed a schoolboy, hardly acknowledging the fact that his parents are blessed with daughters as well as sons, he wakes, and finds himself in a recognized position—that position, strange to say, depending on his relationship to the lady whom he has hitherto only thought of to slight as one of "the girls."

Instead of being regarded by those fair damsels as an unwelcome addition to their party, an enemy to croquet and dancing, as erst to round games and dolls' noses, he finds himself a valued escort, a squire of priceless worth, and an actual power whom it is well to conciliate by the mending of gloves and the manufacture of neckties. But if his sisters' conduct tends to unsettle his belief in his own identity, the behavior of his friends—nay, of his chance acquaintances—is still more bewildering. Fellows who used to vouchsafe a careless nod when they met him now greet him with cordial inquiries after his "people at home;" whilst he is surprised at the obvious desire of his more intimate associates to join that family circle from which they have hitherto shrunk with awkward nervousness.

All this, however, will be the case with most young men who are blessed with grown-up sisters of any ordinary amount of attractiveness. The perfect type of pretty sister's brothers is generally only sixteen and is about four years younger than the siren who lends him his false position. By this time he is getting accustomed to his honors, and they have probably imparted an objectionable confidence to his manners. Where other boys would have had their ears boxed for practical joking, he gets many-bladed pocket-knives from extravagant gentlemen who are suffering the bashful agonies of calf-love. And now, instead of being deservedly snubbed for impertinent remarks on subjects of which he is totally ignorant, he is presented with innumerable cigars by the adorers of his pretty sister. He is allowed to offer his worthless and impudent criticisms on the clothes, the singing, the waltzing of a self-appreciative swells who are hovering around Miss Beauxyeux' fane; and he meets, not with kicks, not even with contempt, but with the most flattering attention.

Sometimes and this will generally denote an impending crisis in the love-making of some hapless swain he is taken as an equal to dine at a club, of which he has never dreamed except in despair. He has the soup, the fish, the wine that he chooses, and the giddy headache that he does not choose: and feels that now indeed he is a man of the world. And as a man of the world he behaves to the best, that is, of his ability. He assumes that air of attempted cynicism which in the young is so inexpressibly offensive. He is blasé; and bored, and languid: and, in a word, acts his caricature to perfection. At parties, concerts, promenades—wherever, in fact, he takes, or is taken by, his pretty sister—he tells you in his manner, if not in words, that he has come not to be amused, not to enjoy himself, not, indeed, on his own account at all. It is entirely Bella's doing; "Girls like this sort of thing, you see," as he explains with a half-suppressed yawn.

But if to the dispassionate looker-on, to the man who is neither engaged in flirtation nor love-making, he appears in the light of a young and annoying puppy, what words can express the odious infliction which he becomes to the unfortunate mortal who is, as the cant phrase goes, "paying his attentions" to this ingenious youth's fair relation?

Is he not almost enough to induce belief in the common but unbotanical statement that there is no rose without a thorn? His small, his very small jokes about fifth wheels of coaches, spoons and blushes, jar upon the ear even of the hardened male flirt only less unpleasantly than his palpably assumed inattentive silence during the murmured conversation of his companions. The incipient and sensitive lover absolutely writhes under the pleasantries of the man whom he hope some day to call brother-in-law. But if he writhes, it must be in silence, and behind the best smile that he can muster, sickly though that smile may be. In fact, it will be as well for him to appear actually to enjoy being rallied, although such rallying on the part of any one else would lead, as he feels, to a serious breach of the peace.

Pretty sisters' brothers, indeed, are inopportune, obtrusive and thoroughly objectionable; at the best they are always either assuming too much or believing too little. Their amiability is inappropriate, their righteous propriety offensive, they come at the wrong time, and fail to go at the right. Privileged persons, they abuse their privileges, treated themselves with exceptional forbearance, they are exceptionally quick to take umbrage at imaginary wrongs. They are evils, unmitigated evils, but then—alas that it should be possible!—they are necessary. But for such institutions, where would be those invaluable wanderings of Flora's in the broad walk of the park? where that unfailing pretext for quiet evenings in the home hallowed by her presence? where that easily managed attendance of hers at festivities, in which you, her distant worshipper, can share? For duennas are not always attainable, and when attained are not invariably complacent. They have, too, an inconvenient habit of looking at things from a foolish and old world point of view, and, unfortunately, are generally vested with authority to enforce their opinions. There is a suggestiveness about their very presence which is annoying, and calculated to chill all but the very ardent. They are difficult, also, to bribe or conciliate. Offer them little attentions, and they suspect that you are laughing at them: neglect these attentions, and they think themselves slighted.

So that after all, there may be advantages even in pretty sister's brothers. Such as they are, they are always at hand, if they are of the true typical order, and they have at least the negative merit of being in reality simple, and easily led.

It is curious to speculate upon the future career of a man of this description. Does he in the course of time make use of the knowledge of the ways of Beauty and her attendants which he has acquired in his triumphant progress? Is he, in his turn, annoyed by the antics of a friend formed upon his own model? Perhaps, and more probably, he has gained wisdom by his folly, and, warned by himself, is careful to select as the object of any tender passion which may be left in him, a lady not encumbered with one of his prototypes. Possibly, however, it is of men such as he that those unmarried but marriageable domestic dandies are formed, who are the puzzle of their relatives and friends. Good-looking, gentlemanly, rather frivolous and therefore incapable of wearing the willow for some lost love, the colony of this small band has always been deemed [illegible] unaccountable [illegible] at least probable that pretty sisters' brothers [illegible] swell their ranks. They have seen too much of courtship to retain any great respect for its cants, they have been admitted too often behind the scenes to care to join the company which is dazzling the audience from the stage. They drift on, therefore, into the handsome bachelor uncles, who are fond of their married sisters, and [illegible] their nephews and nieces. With these they are universally popular, for their faults have grown with their [illegible] to their [illegible]. Their mistakes were those of youth and inexperience, and [illegible] with such mistakes, have been rectified by time. They were once placed, through no fault of their own, in a false position: they had power when they should have had none; they were listened to when they should have been laughed at; they were important when they ought to have been insignificant. In this position they were retained as a matter of convenience, and it would be hardly fair to complain if the delusions which we have helped to keep up left a permanent impress on the characters of their subjects.

But this is not usually the case. The good points which are necessaries for the perfect type—the deference to women as women, and not as possible wives, the boyish gallantry, and the general companionableness will usually reassert themselves in the end, to the exclusion of less pleasant attributes.

And this consideration we offer to the generous and charitable philosopher as a mild consolation for the tortures which he may be suffering under one of these [illegible].

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating the disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to take a stop which will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets, for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus certificates or pretended patient's letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he professes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER.

Consultation FREE.
